Three months ago on May 8, the most destructive fire in Crawford County's history destroyed homes, garages, vehicles, and years of memories. Stories and photos on pages 3-5 show how people are trying to rebuild their lives.

Pere Cheney Cemetery Damaged By Vandals

Vandals on ORVs broke into a gate at Pere Cheney Cemetery, tearing up the ground and doing minor damage. Crawford County Sheriff Deputy Paul Smith found the damage on Sunday, August 5, after a complaint was called in by a Beaver Creek resident.

Lou Ann Crosby, member of the local VFW Post, reported that empty beer and pop cans and bottles were found in the cemetery on Sunday and an American flag had been torn down from its pole.

Opening Date For Vietnam Memorial Set For August 23

The Vietnam Memorial Moving Wall will visit Grayling, from August 23 through August 29, under the sponsorship of the Camp Grayling Area Minutemen Foundation.

The Moving Wall, which will be located at the Camp Grayling Parade Field during its stay, is a 250-foot, half-scale replica of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C.

The Opening Ceremony for the Moving Wall will be held on Thursday, August 23, at 6 p.m.; and a Candlelight Remembrance Service will take place on Saturday, the 25th, at 7 p.m. A ceremony at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, the 29th, will close the display. Daily visiting hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The idea for the Memorial Moving Wall grew out of talks among three Vietnam veterans from California, John Devitt, Gerry Haver and Norris Shears. They wanted to "keep alive and share the power and good" that Devitt had experienced while attending the dedication of the Memorial at the nation's capitol on November 13, 1982.

Construction on the Moving Wall began in February, 1983, after the group experimented with various methods of replicating the Memorial in Washington.

After attempting other, less-satisfactory methods, Devitt decided to use a silkscreening process to replicate the names of the veterans, making each one as legible as on the original Memorial. The Wall was completed on October 11, 1984, and was erected for the first time the following day in Tyler, Texas.

Recently restructured, the Wall is now made of aluminum panels with a black gloss paint surface, mounted on aluminum frames.

The Moving Wall was paid for — as was the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington — by contributions from the public. To get their project started without delay, Devitt, Haver and Shears pooled their own personal funds, which totalled $2,500.

Under normal circumstances, this would not have been enough cash to begin a project of such magnitude with any hope of success. But Devitt was convinced that there was not a normal project. And, in fact, the men found several trusting people who granted them credit, based on their presentation and promise to make good on their debts.

The Wall, at 252.83 feet, is composed of 74 separate frames, each containing two panels. The 58,156 names of persons killed or missing in action during the Vietnam conflict are silkscreened onto the panels with epoxy ink, so the lettering is slightly raised. This permits visitors to both see and touch the names.

The dates on the Wall begin in 1959, when two American military advisors were killed in Bien Hoa while watching a movie in a mess tent. Dates continue through 1975, when the last 18 deaths — casualties of the May 15 operation to rescue the U.S. freighter Mayaguez and its crew — occurred.

Several copies of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Directory of Names will be available for use at the Moving Wall. While the directory lists names of those killed or missing in action alphabetically, they are listed chronologically on the Wall. Volunteers will be present to help visitors find the names they seek.

The three different symbols listed next to the names on the Moving Wall all have significance: diamonds, people killed in action; pluses, people missing in action or held as prisoners of war; and circles, reference points to assist in finding names.

It is permissible to leave mementoes at the Memorial, although taping things to the Wall is not encouraged because some adhesives pull the ink from the surface. All mementoes (except live flowers and plants) will be picked up on the final day, marked as collected in Grayling, and shipped to the warehouse of Vietnam Combat Veterans, Ltd. Eventually a museum will be built to display everything collected from all the Moving Wall stops.

The public is invited to visit the Vietnam Memorial Moving Wall in Grayling. For further information, call Camp Grayling Area Minutemen Foundation committee member Donald O'Grady at 517-348-7691.

MEMORIAL WALL--The Vietnam Memorial Moving Wall will be here Aug. 23-29.

Rebuilding After Forest Fire Hasn't Been Easy

By Irene Pettyjohn

The sound of hammers striking nails and the ringing of power saws cutting through lumber can be heard up and down Stephan and North Down River Road, as victims of the May 8 forest fire work to rebuild their homes and outbuildings. Logging companies are also busy clear cutting the burned forests, in an effort to salvage the valuable timber beneath the blackened bark.

Three months after the worst fire in Crawford County's history destroyed nearly 6,000 acres and 81 residences (year-round homes, vacation homes, cabins and mobile homes) and 115 outbuildings, the reconstruction continues.

Throughout the area small camping trailers stand next to construction sites as residents "make do" as inexpensively as possible, while they rebuild their homes.

FIRST HOMES HIT BY FIRE

Construction on Pappy's Trail is progressing slowly. Pappy's Trail is a small subdivision, located off M-72 East, that was first hit by the fire as it left the Thendara Road area traveling northeast. Most of the debris from homes and trailers has been removed, but several home sites stand empty. It is unknown whether the owners intend to rebuild on the same sites. Very little of the burned forest in this area has been cut.

Even though Pappy's Trail is only a short distance from Thendara Road, Grayling City and Township assistant fire chief Dean Goss said in an interview on May 9, after the fire had been contained, that the intense heat and speed of the forest fire had forced his firemen to evacuate themselves and their equipment, abandoning some of the homes there. He said there were times when they had to race just to try to stay ahead of the roaring fire.

New construction and logging activities are prevalent along Stephan Bridge Road, the second cluster of homes destroyed.

REBUILDING NOT EASY

Carl and Sally Yost moved into their new home on Friday, July 20. It was their fifth move since their home on Stephan Bridge Road was destroyed by the fire. For the past month, they had been living at Pine Knoll Campground in a fifth wheel motor home they borrowed from Sally's nephews, who own Burnside RV in Houghton Lake.

"I don't ever want to camp again in my whole life," stated Sally as she sat at her new dining room table.

Putting their home and lives together again has not been easy for the Yost family, but Sally said the force that kept them going has been all the caring they have received.

"We've had a negative, overwhelming event in our lives," explained Sally, "but more than that, we've had an overwhelming positive one. The caring and giving of the entire community, not just our friends and family, has kept us up when it would have been so easy to get bogged down by the whole situation," she said.

Sally and Carl lost no time rebuilding their home.

"We dug right in," said Sally. "We went out and looked at the model for this house the Sunday after the fire."

The Yosts' insurance will replace their home and most of the contents they lost.

"That's not the problem," she said. "The problem has been trying to pull it all together."

"To be able to go out and buy all new furnishings is every woman's dream," she continued, "but it is an enormous undertaking."

Sally said city dwellers have all kinds of furniture, drapery and department stores available to them within a short distance from their homes, but she and Carl have traveled all over northern Michigan in their effort to refurbish their new home.

"We did not want to make any snap decisions," she explained, "because we are going to live with these decisions for a long time, so some shopping trips had to be repeated."

Inflation has made it impossible for the Yosts to replace everything they lost in the fire. Furthermore, red and white pine seedlings take years to become a forest, and how do you put a price on a lawn, she asked? Other personal belongings that cannot be replaced include family photographs, pieces of furniture from Sally's mother, and other keepsakes.

"We had been evacuated before and we were always back home by evening," she said. "I just didn't take everything I would have saved if I had known this time we wouldn't be returning, and now I've lost them forever."

RABBIT BUSINESS BURNED

Bruce and Amanda Murray used to live in the woods. Their home could not be seen from Stephan Bridge Road. Now it sits in an open field. The trees on their five acres have all been cut.

The Murrays lost a 20 by 30 foot pole barn that containing 100 rabbits valued at about $5,000. Their rabbit business was not insured.

They also lost their 14 by 70 foot mobile home, a newly planted orchard of about 15 different fruit trees, and the fire damaged the vinyl siding on their home.

Amanda said their home and mobile home were insured, but it was not enough to replace everything they lost. They built their home in 1987.

Skeletons of a dune buggy, motorcycle, fishing boat, and other recreational equipment litter the Murrays' yard as they wait for final word from their insurance company.

"We just agreed on a final settlement," said Amanda. "I will be glad when this junk is hauled away." She said it is a constant reminder of everything they lost.

WIELAND RESIDENCE ESCAPES FIRE

Mike and Beth Wieland, residents on North Down River Road, were luckier than many of their neighbors. They lost two outbuildings and a beautiful 30 acre red and white pine forest, but their home was spared.

Stored inside one pole barn were four river boats, three canoes, two duck boats, two outboard motors, three windsurfing boards, a tractor, a 4 wheel drive suburban Mike used to plow snow, and various other "toys" belonging to Mike.

The other pole barn contained two years' worth of firewood. "That building burned for three days," said Mike.

As the fire burned all around them, Mike and brother-in-law, Ed Mariella, stayed and sprayed water on the house until they lost power.

"When we left," said Mike, "there was a wall of fire 100 feet high coming down North Down River Road sounding like a freight train. We looked back and saw Sheldons' house engulfed by fire and explode."

When Wielands returned home Wednesday evening, they said plumes of smoke were rising above the places where homes and garages once stood.

Mike and Beth said the fire burned within 13 feet of their home, covering their redwood siding with black soot.

"We dug right in. We went out and looked at the model for this house the Sunday after the fire."

—Sally Yost

"We scrubbed the siding with cement brushes and then painted it with Thompson's Seal," Mike said. "Parts of the siding are still discolored." He said they are not sure whether the intense heat damaged the seals on their thermo-windows. "Once we were home, I felt so guilty," said Beth. "We had so much more than many other people. Then I looked around. Standing inside our home and looking out the windows, all we saw was black," she continued. "We built our home here because we loved the trees. Now they are all gone."

During the three months since the fire, Beth said more than once the thought has crossed her mind that maybe it would have been better if the house had burned along with everything else.

"We're almost trapped here," she said. "We've invested too much to just walk away."

Mike said 254 red pines have been cut, many of them were 70 to 80 feet high. He said Tony Warren would be clearing the remaining acres. They plan to replant red pine and have already begun setting in some spruce, aspen and red pines.

REFORESTATION WILL TAKE YEARS

"When all is said and done," said Mike, "we can buy new toys, but we won't see the regrowth of our forest. That will take years and years."

Another troubling "side-effect" of the fire for the Wielands is that several of their neighbors were burned out and are not going to rebuild in the same area.

"We're losing our neighbors," said Beth. "Some are close friends and we enjoyed having them live nearby."

They talked of "snow day" potlucks with fellow teachers and shared meals with Dave and Nancy Lemmen, who lost their home in the fire and have decided not to rebuild in the area. "Life will never be the same," said Beth.

STRIKING COLORS—Rains that followed the fire helped nutrients from foliage ash to enrich the soil, causing lush green groundcover to flourish. This bright green next to the black of the charred trees is surprisingly colorful.

43 Years Of Memories Lost

Richard and Phyllis Horton, from the Flint area, have been vacationing, hunting, and fishing at their Stephan Bridge Road cottage for 43 years. On May 8 their vacation home, located on Stephan Bridge Road, was destroyed by the AuSable River forest fire.

He said for a time after the fire, it was a toss-up whether he would rebuild here or not.

"I bought the land (five acres) and built the original cabin with a $500 bonus I received when I left the service in the 1940s," said Richard. "I built the 20 by 24 foot cabin in 1947."

When their summer residence burned, it had grown to 46 feet long, and contained Richard's collection of 5,000 old bottles, beer cans, license plates, and family photographs. He said, along with a working wood burning cook stove, and stone fireplace, the cottage was filled with great memories.

Richard is replacing the larger cottage with one 24 by 32 feet. His 26 by 32 foot garage was replaced with a smaller one too, 24 by 24.

"They were filled with all kinds of collections," he said. "Now the collections are gone, so we don't need the extra space."

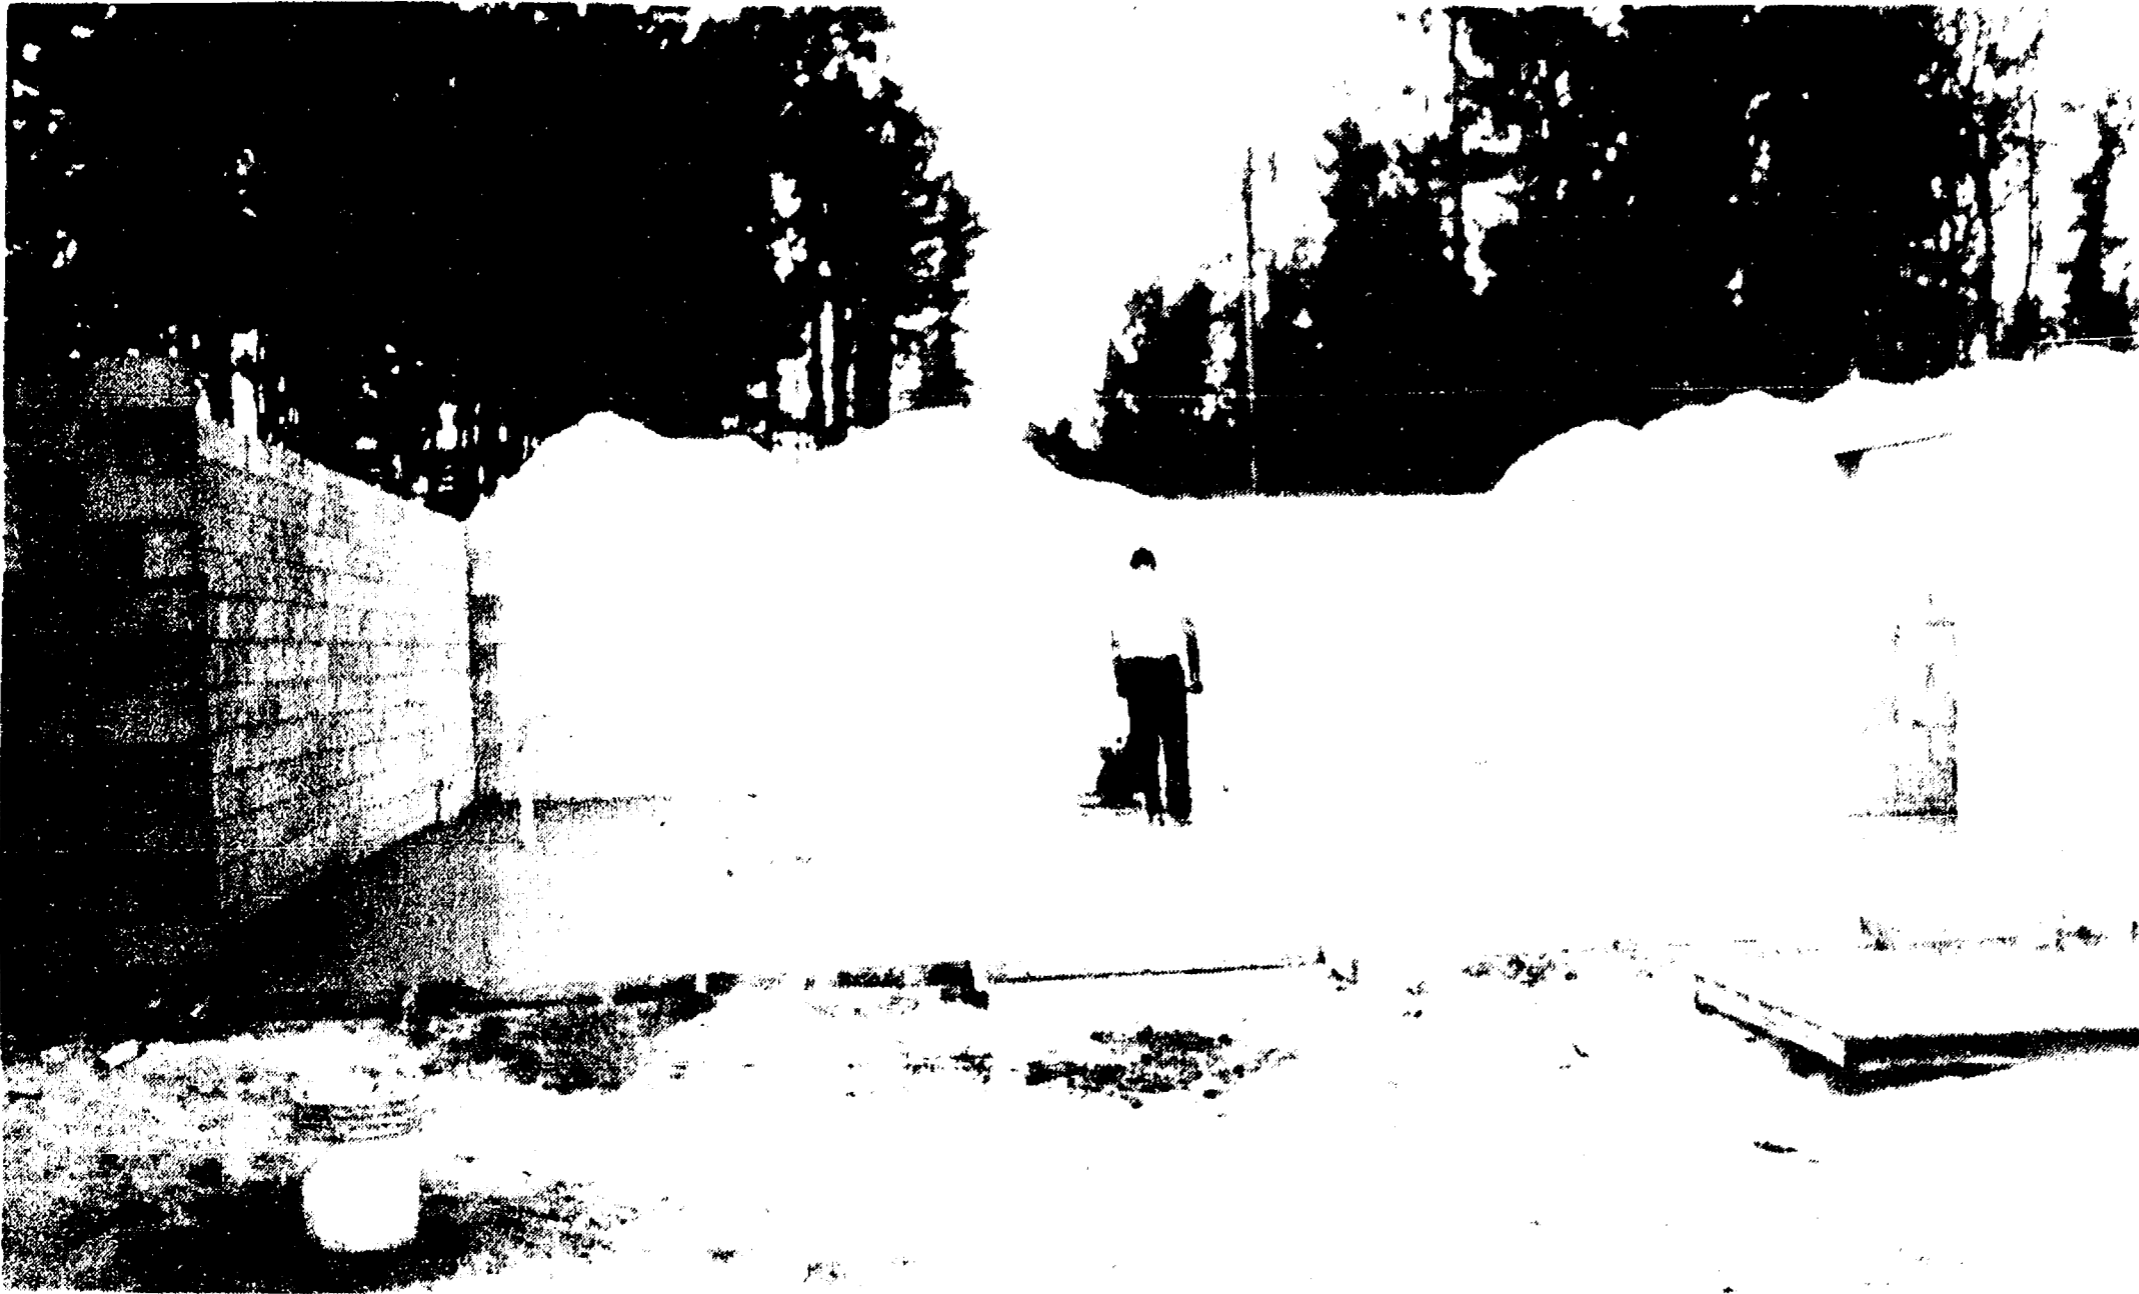

Richard said the memory of being held at the corner of M-72 East and Stephan Bridge Road for two hours while the Governor and DNR officials surveyed the fire site is still upsetting to him.

Richard's son, Steve, walked from M-72 East to check the property while the DNR and press were waiting for Governor Blanchard's arrival.

"If the area was safe for the press and the governor," Steve said, "I figured it was safe enough for us."

"While we were waiting, the governor told me he was going to help the people out," said Richard, "but I haven't seen any help."

Wind Blows Black Soot

The Robert Murchainas were vacationing near the Idaho and Montana borders when they heard about the May 8 forest fire.

"We drove day and night for two days, barely stopping to eat or drink," said Bob. "We left Montana at 3:30 Wednesday afternoon and arrived at 1 p.m. the following Friday."

When they arrived home, they found their retirement home on North Down River Road that was once nestled in a green forest, surrounded by black trees sticking up through black dirt, looking like decayed stalagmites.

Besides their 12 1/2 acres of woodland property that will have to be clear cut, the Murchainas lost a 24 by 40 foot storage building that contained various tractors, lawn mowers, and recreational vehicles.

Somehow their home and garage escaped the fire, but the vinyl siding on both looked like curly ribbons. The roof and shingles on their home had to be replaced, too.

"The wind blows now as it has never blown before," said Bob. "When our windows are open, the wind blows black soot off the trees and ground onto the furniture and windows sills," he said. "We're not ever going to completely recover out here."

Bob said, as a result of the fire, he is having a problem with the Grayling Township Zoning Board because he wants to build another 26 by 36 foot storage barn to house his 33-foot long motor home, and explained the board has said no.

Zoning for Recreational Forest states that accessory buildings cannot be larger than twice the square footage of the residence and are limited to two accessory buildings per site, unless it is a farm.

"When the property had large pine trees on it, I could back my $60,000 motor home under their branches and it was protected from the weather," said Bob. "Since the fire I've had the gas siphoned out of my motor home, and it had to sit out in a hail storm."

Across the road from the Murchainas, logging companies have almost finished cutting the burned forest. DNR fire officer Duane Brooks said when the woods are quiet, bark beetles can be heard growling and chewing the remaining trees.

Painful Losses Remain Months Later

Ted and Bernie Sieger were almost finished remodeling the Hoffman farmhouse on North Down River when the forest fire roared through their property leveling everything.

"All we had left was to repaint the living and dining rooms," said Bernie.

Today, Ted is busy laying up the foundation for their new double wide home which is expected August 20. In the meanwhile, they are living in a small travel trailer on the property.

The Siegers' insurance policy was not sufficient to replace everything they lost on May 8. Ted misses his tools and tractor and said he would not be able to afford to replace everything.

"Every time he tries to fix something or work on a project and realizes he doesn't have the right screwdriver or hammer, he says 'well I guess I can't do that job,'" said Bernie.

Bernie said she will miss her quilts made by her grandmother, her antique dishes and furniture and, most of all, her cookbooks.

"It was hard losing everything, but it was harder losing our son's belongings," said Bernie. "He had just returned from the service and we were storing his things. The fire also destroyed his 1952 Chevrolet he had restored," she said.

Bernie said she had told her children that when she moved again, her new house would not have a stairway.

"I got my wish," she said. "I just wish it hadn't happened this way."

The Siegers' new home will come with curtains. Everything else must be purchased, and Bernie said she isn't crazy about setting up a home from scratch at this time in her life. She said, right now, she is going through catalogs, "just looking."

"Our friends are wonderful," Bernie said. "They have helped in so many ways."

The Business and Professional Women's Club gave Bernie a shower, and she said the Salvation Army and Red Cross have been great.

PAINFUL SCARS

Sadly, a few of the homes and trailers destroyed remain just as they were the morning following the forest fire. Skeletal remains of refrigerators, bed springs, and bathtubs lay among countless unrecognizable bits and pieces of household and garage items.

Some of these destroyed sites remain because owners lack the money to clean up the debris. Others belong to out-of-state owners who have not yet come to their vacation homes to survey their loss. Still others may be waiting to begin reconstruction.

Whatever the reason, most residents of the area say these sites are painful reminders of the devastation caused by the May forest fire, and wish the sites would be cleaned up soon.

The DNR's explanation of how the fire began is also troubling to some fire victims.

"I think somebody is trying to cover up something," said Amanda Murray. "It is hard to believe the fire smoldered for two months. Maybe downstate where there is clay in the soil it would be possible for a fire to smolder for months at a time," she said, "but not in our sand."

Another resident asked why the DNR is not responsible for the burning permits it issues, especially the sites where large burning projects take place.

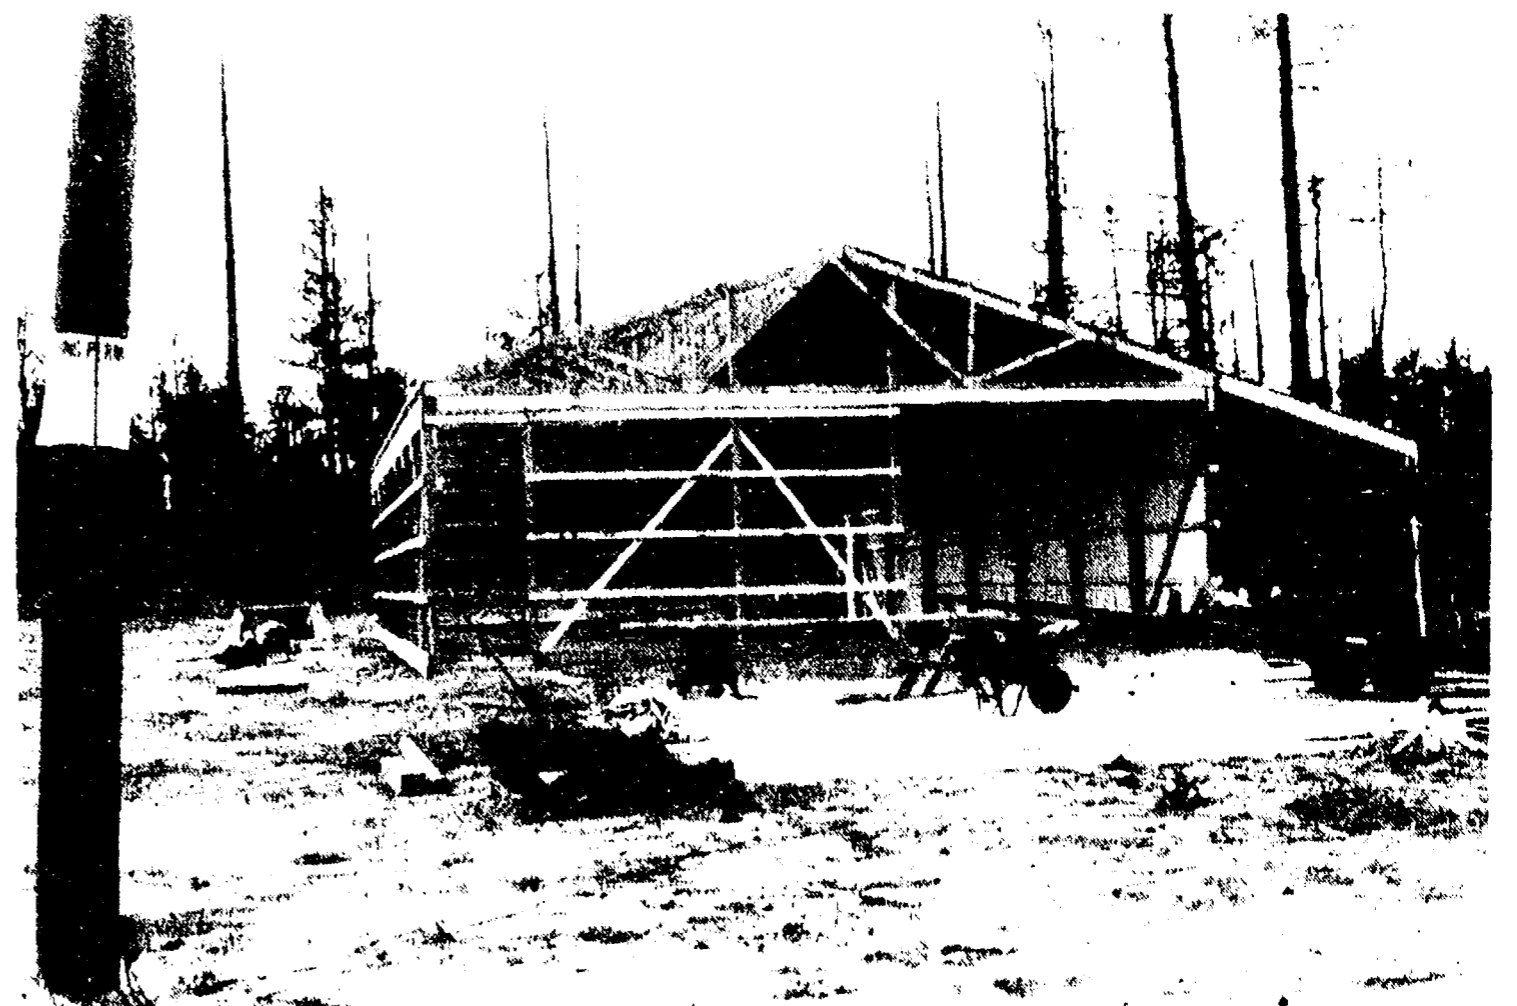

"Look how many people's lives were affected and, apparently, no one is responsible or accountable," he said.

Bernie said she is still troubled with the explanation of how the fire supposedly started.

"The shock is over," she said, "but not the anger. That will take a little longer."

A FAMILY AFFAIR—Richard Horton and his two sons are rebuilding their family vacation cottage on Stephan Bridge Road.

POLE BARN—Mike and Beth Wieland are replacing their two smaller outbuildings with one large one. To save money, Mike is doing the construction work himself.

NEW FOUNDATION—Ted and Bernie Sieger are replacing the old Hoffman farmhouse with a double-wide pre-fabricated home.

RECOVERY CONTINUES—Workmen are shown repairing another home on Stephan Bridge Road.

POLE BARN DEBRIS—The skeletal remains of the Murrays' dune buggy, motorcycle, and boat will soon be hauled away.

ACRES LEVELED—This oak tree stands alone in a field beside North Down River Road where loggers have clear cut the burned forest in an effort to salvage the wood.

WORK CONTINUES—Even after the Yosts' new home was delivered, porches had to be built, lawns re-established, and flowers and trees planted.

SALVAGE EFFORTS—Logging companies are cutting the blackened forests in an effort to salvage some of the wood beneath the charred bark.

FIRE SCARS—Twisted and charred metal is all that remains of this travel trailer set back into the woods. Soon new shrubs and ground cover will conceal it completely.

PAINFUL REMINDER—The debris from this home on the corner of Pine and North Down River Road is a constant reminder of how the area looked three months ago.

ARROW HOME—On July 25, an Arrow Home delivery truck loaded a new home for Guy Williams.

FAST WORK—One week later workers were nailing shingles on the roof.

Recycling Corner

By Carol Wakeley

Recycling is not limited just to your home. You can do a lot of recycling at the office and in school. The average person in an office throws away more than 175 pounds of high-grade paper each year. Being that we are running out of room for landfills and the landfills themselves are in a bad state, it makes sense to recycle wastepaper. There will also be less demand on our forests.

Nearly half of the paper we use is in the form of packaging. Not all is recyclable because it is mixed with other materials or treated in some way. The paper that is reusable, though, should be. This means changes not only in the paper-making industry, but in the solid waste management too. First, we need industries to use more wastepaper; then in the workplace we must separate collections of paper; and finally, there has to be a demand for the finished product: recycled paper.

Using desk top containers can help to sort paper. Use odd pieces of paper for scratch paper before recycling them. Reuse the large yellow envelopes by putting gummed labels over the old addresses. See if your business can start using recycled paper for envelopes, note pads, stationery, etc. Its quality is just as good. Check the cartons that office supplies come in to see if they are made from recycled fibers and try to get all containers recycled.

Bring in containers for glass and aluminum and try and get everyone to use them. Take a coffee mug to work to avoid the use of disposable cups. Instead of sending out for lunch, bring your own so there won't be all that waste from styrofoam cups and paper packaging. Cutting down on waste in the office means lower waste disposal fees.

Simple changes in the office can cut energy bills almost in half. Here are some examples.

- * Put two lamps in a four-lamp fixture and install reflectors.
- * Aerate your faucets. A faucet aerator reduces the flow of water but still puts out good pressure because air is mixed in with water as it comes out of the tap. Aerators are simple to attach and inexpensive.

- * A displacement device placed in the toilet tank reduces the amount of water the tank will hold, therefore saving a lot of water every time it is flushed. You can make one of these devices by filling a plastic bottle with water and a few stones to weigh it down. Place inside the tank.
- * Two-sided copy machines can save a lot of paper when copying lengthy reports.

- * Through local electric utilities your business can have an energy audit. They will tell you ways to save in energy costs.

In schools you can ask for recycled typing, writing, and construction paper. Also, paper towels and toilet paper that are made from recycled paper can be used. Containers can be placed in cafeterias for cans, bottles, etc. Try to keep styrofoam out of schools. Make everyone concerned by having bulletin boards with interesting information on recycling and the environment. As students, encourage your parents to recycle.

Bulk quantities of recycled bond paper, computer paper, copier paper, envelopes, etc. can be ordered through: Conservatree, 10 Lombard Street, San Francisco, CA, 94111, or call 415-433-1000.

Chamber Director Applauds Community For Successful Milltown Festival And Marathon

Dear Grayling:

On behalf of the Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce, I would like to thank all of the individuals who helped make this year's Milltown Festival and AuSable River Marathon a tremendous success.

I think it is only fitting to begin the list of "thanks" with Milltown Festival Chairman, Donna Masker, and all of her support team on the committee. One of the sub-committees of the Milltown Festival was the Milltown Fine Arts and Country Crafts Show, chaired by Nancy Hatfield. This committee is to be commended for bringing truly "Quality Crafters" to Grayling. The women of the Grayling Promotional Association deserve a standing ovation for outdoing the rest of the year with one of the most spectacular parades in Northern Michigan! Our community owes great thanks to the members of the AuSable River Marathon Committee, both locally and in our sister city of Oscoda, who collectively made this year's Marathon a banner event and a milestone for the years ahead.

To the Grayling City and County Police Departments and support staff from the Michigan National Guard, who did an excellent job of managing the enormous crowds which have been estimated at over 35,000 for the entire Milltown Festival and AuSable River Marathon events.

Also, it is necessary to extend a very special thank you to the families, employees and staff for all of the committee chairmen and members, who willingly accepted increased responsibilities to help support their community-minded family members or employees.

And last, but certainly not least, to all of the Grayling area businesses and residents who continue to offer their monetary and moral support to the numerous community organizations, clubs and programs of the Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce, we again extend a very heartfelt Thank You!

Deborah B. Allen,
Executive Director
Grayling Regional
Chamber of Commerce

Stripes Offer Thanks For Recognition In Parade

To the Editor:

We wish to thank the G.P.A. and the people of Grayling for honoring us by choosing Joe to be the Grand Marshal of the Milltown Parade, and helping us to celebrate our 50th anniversary. We feel honored, and it's hard to express how happy we are to be so recognized. Grayling is a fine town, and the many service clubs and organizations help to make it so. Again, thanks to the G.P.A. and to all the friends we've made here in our 50 years in Grayling.

Couple Appreciates Help Received By Three Local Good Samaritans

Dear Sir:

We are writing this letter in order that we can publicly thank three very Good Samaritans from your community.

On July 11, we were traveling north, on I-75, heading toward Wilderness State Park. Our camper suddenly had a flat tire.

We tried everything to change the tire while the traffic was closely passing by. We were unable to change the tire because the lugs were so rusted. Our only choice was to walk into Grayling and look for assistance.

After only approximately 150 feet, a car pulled over, asking if they could help. Ray Priebe and Tina offered a ride into town. They went after Ray's brother, Steve, and all three returned to help us. Ray and Steve quickly changed our tire, refusing to let us help and refusing to accept any payment for all they had done. They even followed us to the gas station to be sure our spare tire was properly inflated. Their only request was to "help someone else sometime."

Truly they are a shining example of the fine young adults we should all be aware of. If they are an example of the people of your community, you all can be extremely proud.

We are hoping that somewhere in your community there is a system by which your Good Samaritans could be honored.

We certainly will always remember Grayling's Good Samaritans, Ray, Steve and Tina as we drive I-75 toward Grayling.

Skeptic Questions Validity Of U of M Scientist's Traffic Study

Dear Jon:

A few weeks ago you ran a news release from the University of Michigan, stating that a "scientist" there, under contract by the Michigan State Police, had determined that the five traffic deaths in Crawford County in 1989 had cost $18,626,000, which is $3,725,200 per traffic death.

I expected to see a number of letters in your paper about those figures, but it's very possible I'm the only one around who still reads anything put out by U of M (I only read them for laughs). It's easy to see why people don't pay attention to U of M anymore. In 1985 or 1986 the professors (i.e., scientists) at U of M stated the water in the Great Lakes was so high "it will take 20 to 40 years for the lake levels to get back down to normal." In 1989 these same U of M "scientists," without so much as a red face or any mention of previous statements, said the Great Lakes water levels are so low "it will take 20 to 40 years to get them back up to normal."

The State Police gave this "scientist" a grant (plus he probably got another $100,000 from the Feds), to help them justify the overtime pay needed to run sobriety check-lanes and another costly idea they had.

I would like you to contact this U of M scientist, and ask him to send you an itemized list of the costs he used. If you publish them, anyone in this county could probably blow enough holes through his "facts" to make them look like a screen door.

I'll bet a nickel, police overtime for those five deaths didn't average over $200.00. The rest of the costs were paid by the estates of the persons killed. Except for a few people, I understand the average annual income around here is between $15,000 and $20,000. If it is $15,000, the person would have to start making it the day he/she was born and make that amount for 248 years. If it's $20,000, it would only take 186 years.

With professors (scientists) like U of M has, and the kind of "smoke bombs" they throw out, it makes you wonder what kind of graduates they're turning out. (That last statement ought to live up your editorial page for a few weeks!!!) I remain - the Perpetual Skeptic.

Reader Becomes Recycler; Likes Recycling Column

Dear Jon:

In the olden days, the first thing I did when the Crawford County Avalanche arrived was to read your "Northern Views."

Recently I have found myself reading the "Recycling Corner" first. (I hope your feelings aren't hurt by this confession.) These articles have been very informative and encouraging and have succeeded in making me into a recycler.

As I am not currently a resident of Grayling, Carol Wakeley is unknown to me. I would greatly appreciate it if you would tell me who she is and how she became so knowledgeable about the recycling process.

Marie Kalthoff,

JESSE JACKSON RUNS ON THIN ICE

THE REV. JESSE JACKSON, who wants to be President of the United States, finally has decided to run for public office....sort of. Mr. Jackson sought the Democratic nomination for president in 1984 and in 1988, and is gearing up to try again in 1992.

One of the knocks put on his candidacy by anti-Jackson critics is that he's never run for nor held public office.

"The only thing Jesse has ever run is his mouth," carped one anti-Jackson politico.

Mr. Jackson was born in South Carolina and operated out of Chicago, but recently he established residence in Washington, D.C. It sure looked like he would run for mayor of Washington to succeed the beleaguered incumbent, Marion Barry.

But Mr. Jackson dallied on entering the race. Walter Fauntroy, who is the District of Columbia's non-voting delegate to the House of Representatives, started campaigning for mayor. This opened yet another natural avenue to elective office for the Rev. Jackson.

Again, Mr. Jackson demurred. He decided not to run for mayor, nor for Mr. Fauntroy's seat, either.

HOWEVER, MR. JACKSON DID THROW his hat into another ring. He is a candidate for one of three positions created by the District City Council to lobby the Congress for statehood for the District. He wants to become one of two "shadow senators," who, along with a "shadow representative," are expected to lobby for statehood.

The job has no office....no duties....no responsibilities, other than the vague one of lobbying for statehood....no salary....no expenses....no budget....no accountability. In short, it is an office that is not an office.

Jesse Jackson is a shoo-in to win.

But even if he does win the November election as "shadow senator," what has he won?

Mr. Jackson has said he expects to be treated as a regular senator, including access to the senate floor.

Obviously the district City Council's creation deserved neither - even if the Rev. Jesse Jackson is involved.

YOU CAN ALMOST HEAR the rhetoric already, and you can envision the ploys for publicity, with "Sen. Jackson" declaring thus-and-so, and "Sen. Jackson" decrying this-and-that. You can be sure Mr. Jackson will play the role to the hilt.

But it is all shadow, with no substance. As James P. Gannon, Detroit News bureau chief, pointed out in a recent column, Mr. Jackson "runs the risk of being irrelevant, if not a joke," with his potential maneuvering in the shadow job.

Even if he becomes the district's "shadow senator," Jesse Jackson will not have dispelled the criticism that he is inexperienced in elective or public office.

WELL, WHY DIDN'T Mr. Jackson run for a real public office? Why didn't he run for mayor of Washington? Surely his appeal would have been strong enough to assure a win, and surely being mayor of one of the nation's most important cities is a large enough office to build a sound base for higher elective office.

Undoubtedly Mr. Jackson could be elected mayor of Washington if he should run. And the job is one that, if mastered, could provide experience and background for something higher (whether for the presidency, however, is subject to argument).

The real stopper is that the job as mayor of Washington, under present circumstances, is almost impossible to master. It's a tough, rough job, tackling huge, tough problems with limited resources.

How do you solve the crime problem in Washington? How do you conquer drugs in the District of Columbia? How do you put people to work? How do you provide housing for the homeless, and food for the hungry, and support for the indigent? How do you cope with the public welfare program?

These are problems that have mushroomed in Washington in recent years - as they have in many metropolitan areas. Could Jesse Jackson have made a dent in them? Possibly. But getting the city of Washington straightened around leaves no time and no effort to adequately run for president, too. That's the bind.

The biggest problem for Jesse Jackson in running for mayor of Washington is that he probably would win. And then, what would he do?

filled with junk, like pop cans or candy-wrappers, and trash like that, so I think that we should have 1 day every year that they will have kids that live on every road walk up and down the road and pick up all of the trash, and the people that live on rivers or lakes, or even the ocean can clean up the beach, or canoe up and down a river and pick up around the shallow part.

I hope you really take time to think about my idea.

Young Driver Advises Others: Look Out For Kids; Drive Slowly

Dear Editor:

I am a young person from Grayling. Recently I was asked by a local man to drive slower down his street. There were many children near the street, and this concerned the man. Young drivers should look out for children, and drive slower in residential areas.

Let's Talk About It By Joe Murphy

Once again Grayling has shown what working together can accomplish. The Milltown celebration and another great parade were the results of many clubs and organizations working and planning together. I think the results were outstanding. Everyone who helped to stage this banner event deserves a rousing cheer and a big THANK YOU.

I cannot say for sure, as I have not seen them all, but of what I've seen this was the best ever. I know I have never seen more people lining the parade route. There were a lot of things going on all over and everyone seemed to be in a jolly, festive mood.

The magic show still has me scratching my head and wondering HOW DID HE DO THAT? I hope some club books him for his full two-hour show; I think it would be a real winner.

The Shriners are becoming a big part of the parade and I know everyone is very happy that they are; they add so much to the fun of it. I am already looking forward to next year's Milltown celebration. THANK YOU everyone who took part in any way. IT WAS GREAT.

A trip to the Hartwick Pines proved to be time well spent in spite of the drizzle of rain that Sunday brought. The saw mill was hard at work with the old steam tractor powering the saw. They had even tapped off some of the steam to a pot which they used to cook a New England-style boiled dinner for the crew. Maybe next year they will be set up to offer the public bean soup cooked in the steam pot.

There was a lot to see and enjoy and some great old time music to listen to. Until you have heard "Wildwood Flower" played on two dulcimers, you just have not heard music at its best. Today's music holds no appeal for me - too much noise and not enough music. Guess I'm just too old to enjoy it.

It's hard to believe fall is just around the corner and we just haven't had summer yet. Before we know it, snow will be flying and we will be into winter. I sure don't look forward to it like I do the other seasons.

I sure would not care to live in the big cities today. The new fad of drive-by shootings is a real bummer. Here we can walk the streets in comparative safety, which is something no one can do in a lot of places. You really have to wonder what the world is coming to.

Even in the depth of the depression there was nothing to compare with the crime today. I remember one man telling me the story of how close he came to being a car thief. He had left home looking for work and after a long, hard search had to give up. He had a sister living in Detroit and made it back to Detroit in a box car. He wound up downtown hungry and freezing; his sister lived a long way out and he didn't have a penny in his pockets. It was early in the morning and a man pulled into a diner and left his car running. He said he was never more tempted to climb into a car and drive away than right then. His good sense prevailed and he walked to his sister's house.

Sunglasses for Windows

It's like putting sunglasses on a window, says David Bibler, about applying Lumar, solar-controlled window films.

The Micro-thin, polyester-mylar films are virtually invisible when properly applied to existing windows.

But the films block up to 80 percent of the heat in summer and retain up to 65 percent of the heat in winter, says Bibler, co-owner of Quality Window Tinting in Traverse City, Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo, with his wife, Judy.

Three types of films -- reflective, non-reflective and Low E series are available, all of which virtually eliminate the ultra-violet rays which cause sun rot, sun fading and sun glare. These films are all covered by a 7-year warranty.

Quality Window Tinting also installs solar control film on motor homes and passenger vehicles. All installations come with a lifetime guarantee.

The catch was made on 12-pound line and entered in the MET where it tied with Donald McPherson, of Miami, for the heaviest snapper on 12-pound test.

By Fay Bovee

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morley of Bay City, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Carver and daughters, Jessica and Jill, of Grosse Ile, and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Pond of Livonia were all guests of Aileen Pond for the Milltown Festival.

Sean Mika and Mickey Smiley of Bay City, visited this past weekend with Aileen Pond.

Leta Babbitt's granddaughters, Cathy, husband Robert Jensen, and children Robert and Tamu, all from Mattawan, were among the many out-of-town guests attending the Milltown activities.

Cathy, Arnold and Mary Babbitt's daughter Cathy, with her sister Connie, and brother William, spent many summers on the Old AuSable visiting their grandparents, the Dan and Leta Babbitts, at the Babbitt's Resort.

One of Cathy's excitements was pouring cold water into gopher holes to watch them run out on dry land. Sometimes she earned a fine net to see if she could capture one. She and her sister Connie Strayer spent much time in the Whirl-pool swimming or helping grandma Leta roll out bread dough to make their own sweet rolls. They enjoyed Helen Broeker's children, Linda, Janet and Donnie, who lived next door.

The Jensens visited the Crawford County Museum, looking at the many Babbitt pictures and other interesting arrangements.

Cathy and her husband Robert both work in Kalamazoo at Upjohn.

Mrs. Josephine Owens of Freeport, Illinois, is in the Grayling and northern Michigan area visiting friends and relatives. She is accompanied by her son David and wife, of Idaho.

The AuSable-Manistee Fiber Guild had a working display in the Gazebo Park on Michigan Avenue during the Milltown festivities. They demonstrated weaving, spinning, chair caning, and knitting. An August 8 field trip to a farm in Fairview for a sheep-shearing demonstration is planned. Anyone interested in the guild and wishing to go should meet in the back of the Victoriana parking lot at noon.

Jim and Donna Carmine from the Fiber Guild also demonstrated chair caning and spinning at the Hartwick Pines during the Milltown weekend.

A guest of Joan Rose and her husband Stuart was her sister Georgia Nugent, from central Utah, whom she hadn't seen in 16 years. Georgia spent a week with Joan and they attended the Frederic Homecoming Reunion. Also visiting was Georgia's daughter Elaine Johns of Oklahoma, whom Joan had not seen in 29 years. Other relatives coming to visit for a couple of days were the Fauvers of Saginaw, the Vollmers and Cassidys of Frederic, the Winstorfs of Sand Lake and the Nugents of Bay City. An Open House was held at the RLDS Church in Grayling at the end of June and many of Georgia's former classmates came to see her.

Konsta Pamillo of Espoo, Finland, arrived at metro Airport, Detroit, on July 30 and was met by the Gary Davis family, with whom he is staying until August 23. Konsta was an exchange student who lived with the Davis family for a year.

Marlen Stuckey of Visperterminen, Switzerland, will arrive at Cherry County Airport, Traverse City, on August 14. She will be living with Gary and Mary Davis and family for the school year and attending Grayling High School. She is a Youth for Understanding exchange student.

Meri Koyama of Tokyo, Japan, will be arriving at Tri-City Airport on August 14. She will be living with Bob and Carla Jean Gingerich and family and attending Grayling High School for a year under the Youth for Understanding exchange student program.

On Saturday, July 28, Roy and Mo Lovely were the guests of honor at a belated 50th wedding anniversary party, given by their three children and their spouses, at the home of Roy and Barbara Lovely. They received many lovely gifts. There were guests from Grayling, Roscommon, Elmira, Grand Blanc, Pontiac, Oxford, Garden City, Auburn and Sanford.

The children also took Roy and Mo to dinner at the Shop-penagon's Hotel on July 27.

The 31st reunion of the Sarah and Alexander Atkinson family, which originated in Bay City, was held on Sunday, July 29, 1990, at Plymouth Park in Midland. There were 46 members and two guests in attendance.

Oldest was Eleanor Weggel of Linwood. Jane Murphy and son Colin, of Traverse City, travelled the farthest. The largest family belonged to Ruth and Bill Eyre of Gladwin, with 13. Their great grandson, Nicholas Bedbury, of Midland, was the youngest. Attending from Grayling were Clara Atkinson Sorenson and husband Robert Sorenson.

There has been so much activity in town this summer that it's hard to tell you all of the things that have been going on. The city's major street project was finished a long time ago and generally residents have fixed up their curbsides and kept it all looking very nice.

We realize that the income tax goes only for roads and that by the time enough is accumulated for the next project some of them will need repairing. But, I do have a question: Is there any way that some of the money can eventually be used to repair sidewalks and replace and build where there are none? Just asking.

Another major project has been the M-72 East road in the city limits. Curbs have finally been poured this past week and I'm sure south side residents are thankful for that. The roadway should not be far behind now.

Progress is being made on the new county road garage. One of the old buildings on M-72 has been torn down and a new garage is under construction.

The corner of M-72 and Business I-75 is very busy now; what is it going to be like when the Burger King replaces the old county garage? One weekend not long ago we understand traffic was backed up on Sunday from the I-75 entrance south all the way to Aunt Betty's on M-72 West.

Next week we'll try to tell you about some of the homes that have nice yards, flowers, and gardens.

Good Forecast

Most meteorology students still devote their time to weather forecasting, but there is an increasing career shift toward private meteorological consulting work. Oilmen, stock traders, retailers, lawyers and construction firms all need to know if that silver lining has a dark cloud.

1990 Little Miss winner Lexie Bondar poses with Miss Grayling Anna Marie Coffron

The Flag Raising Ceremony was performed by the VFW at opening day's ribbon cutting.

Fair Board member Sharon Hadley looks on as the animals were judged Wednesday.

The Little Miss Contest featured many pretty young contestants.

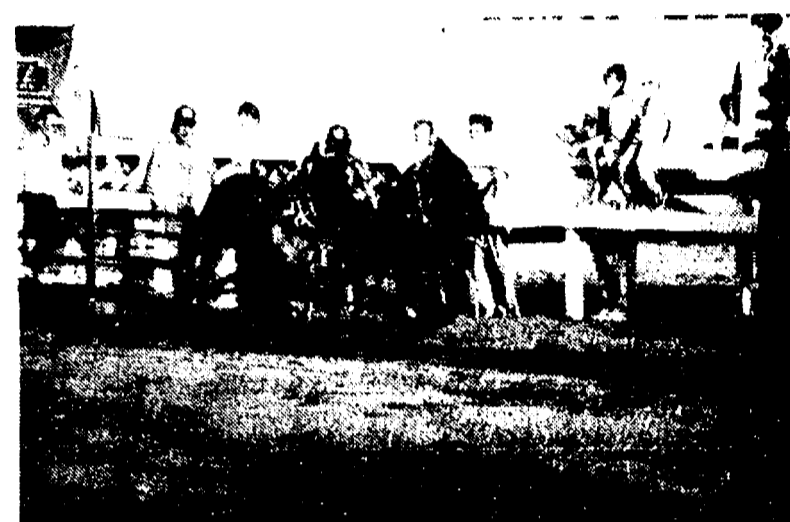

This youngster was none too sure about the pony rides.

Weyerhaeuser, Inc. supplied the Structurwood for the roof of the new pavilion, shown here with a highlift supplied by AuSable Construction. Delivery of the wood was supplied by Art Swogger.

Work on the new pavilion continued during the fair to make it ready for the Jello Wrestling match Thursday night.

These ponies were working hard at Friday's Pony Pull which was Sponsored by CF Fick & Son.

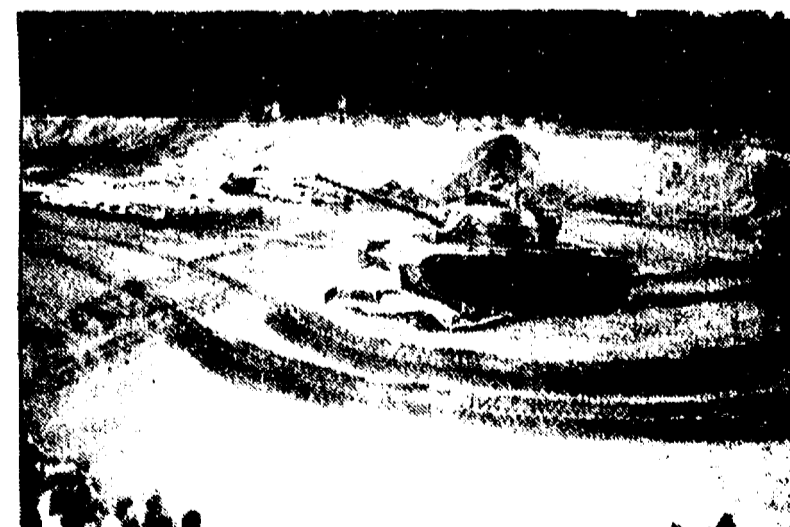

Saturday's Horse Show was a popular event with both the competitors and the spectators.

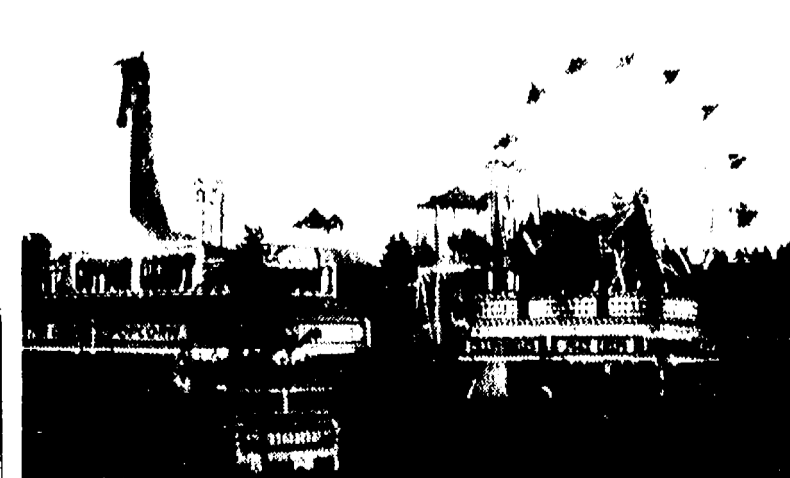

The Michigan National Guard dropped in Saturday with a Parachute Jumping demonstration.

The Monster Truck Show was a crowd pleaser on Saturday night.

Even the Michigan National Guard joined the fun showing what happens when a car just won't get out of the way.

Dusk falls on the Crawford County Fair for another year.

Camp AuSable Hosts Active Handicappers

Handicapped people are camping this week at Camp AuSable. All engage in the various activities. They may be riding horses or 4-wheeling, hitting the bull's eye in archery, swimming, canoeing, making ceramics, loving snakes, or looking for birds. The less active are relaxing in the sun, visiting with friends or making new friends.

These people come from Lansing and attend the Beekman Center. They have Lyn Murray in charge and she has 12 assistants. Camp counselors are also with them to assist in any way possible.

Camp director, Bill Edsell, declares that these campers are unique, enthusiastic, and cooperative. They leave Friday and on Sunday blind and legally blind young people will come for a week.

On Friday of this week the Camp AuSable staff will go to Mackinac Island for an excursion and outing. This is the only day this summer that the staff as a whole has had an opportunity to go on an extended trip together. Most of them are Michigan residents. Some come from other states, such as Georgia, California, Illinois, Colorado, and Wisconsin.

At the conclusion of the camping season they return to their schools, homes, or other activities until June of 1991, when the program starts again.

Reading Aloud to Children Helps Expand Vocabularies

Once children begin to read on their own, parents and teachers tend to read aloud to them less. As a result, budding vocabularies may be nipped in the bud, according to two experiments by a New Zealand researcher.

Research by Warwick B. Elley, University of Canterbury, showed that young children acquire new vocabulary as they listen to stories read to them, whether the reader explains unfamiliar words or not. When the reader stops to explain what the words mean, children double their vocabulary gains.

Among the findings were:
Children can learn about 15 percent of the unfamiliar words in a story by just listening to it read aloud to them a few times.

The children with the most limited vocabularies gain at least as much as children who started out with good vocabulary skills.

The story words most easily learned seemed to be those that appeared in a helpful context, occurred more than once in the story and were illustrated in at least one picture.

The message in this research is that even though your kids are reading on their own in second and third grade, they can still benefit from being read aloud to.

This gain more than doubles when the reader tells listeners what the words mean.

The new vocabulary words gained this way are a relatively permanent acquisition (three-month follow-up testing showed that the decline in recall was an "almost negligible" two to three percent).

4-H Offers Workshop In Visual Arts and Crafts

Crawford County adults and teen leaders interested in visual arts and crafts are invited to attend the 4-H visual arts and crafts workshop, September 14-15, 1990, at Kettunen Center near Tustin, Michigan.

Discovering and using color will be the theme of the training. There will be sessions on wearable art, including tie-dyeing t-shirts and socks, weaving a belt, sash or guitar strap, and creating hand made jewelry. Just-for-fun sessions include rag basketry, paper mache, and many additional surprise crafts.

Several ideas for arts and crafts projects for 5 to 8-year-olds and a session on planning and locating resources for a 4-Harts club will also be taught. A group crazy quilt session will demonstrate how a club can create exciting club projects.

"Who Me? Creative? You Bet!" presented by Janet Olson, Associate Program Leader for Michigan 4-H, will highlight Friday evening, along with the annual arts and crafts auction. Proceeds from the auction are used to send the Michigan 4-H craft, arts and woodworking state project winners to National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

"The purpose of the visual arts and crafts workshop is to provide an opportunity for volunteer leaders to learn new techniques and refine existing skills. It is also important for volunteers to have a chance to learn project management ideas such as working with 5-to-8 year olds or where to find arts resources. This workshop gives leaders that chance," says Shelley Hubbard, 4-H Program Assistant.

The workshop is sponsored by a grant from Chemical Bank and Trust and Cummings Fund through the Michigan 4-H Foundation. Reservations are due in the Crawford County office by September 4, 1990. For more information about the 4-H visual arts and crafts workshop, contact the local County Extension Office at 348-2841, ext. 264.

Verse or Worse

Milltown

Back in the days when lumber was king
Grayling was a booming town
The mills were working day and night
Sawing the logs the lumberjacks cut down

Thousands of car loads of lumber were shipped
That were harvested from Crawford County land
Till one day the lumber kings realized
They were down to one little stand

The timber they thought would last forever
They knew was almost gone
Just one little stand not worth cutting
So they packed up and moved on

Our little town unlike many towns
Didn't just dry up and blow away
It had too many things going for it
That made folks want to stay

It had its two wonderful rivers
The AuSable and Manistee
And a multitude of lovely lakes
That were there for all to see

Folks started coming into this county
Just to enjoy the beauty we have here
For there is always lots to enjoy
In all four seasons of the year

The little stand of pine the lumbermen left
Won fame as the Hartwick Pines State Park
Our little town did more than survive
And we're as happy as a lark.

Your Social Security

A change in the Social Security law effective January, 1990, makes it easier for a child adopted by a Social Security beneficiary to receive benefits based on the beneficiary's record.

Under the old law, these children adopted after the worker's entitlement to Social Security, generally could not receive benefits unless the adopting parent had lived with and supported the child for a full year before the parent became entitled to disability or retirement benefits. The legislative change eliminated this requirement for most children.

Endorsed by the White House Working Group on the Family, this change in the law eliminates the financial disincentives to adoption in the prior law.

Any beneficiary who has adopted a child who might be eligible for benefits should contact Social Security to file an application for the child. Any beneficiary whose adopted child was previously denied benefits should also contact Social Security to find out if the child now qualifies.

An original or certified copy of the child's birth certificate and proof of adoption, and the child's Social Security num-

Doodles from the Tall Timber

Wendall Hoover

We have been hearing the weird sounding call of the pileated woodpeckers that call the tall timber home. While I've written about this largest of our woodpeckers before, I came across some interesting information recently that I would like to share.

This bird is a symbol of wild areas and large trees. Widespread clearing of Michigan's forests was a really serious setback to them, compounded by the fact that the pioneers shot them for sport and food. Audubon's opinion of them, as a food, was that they were "tough and extremely unpalatable."

A pileated will become so attached to the tree in which it made its first nest, that it will return to the same tree, again and again, so long as a suitable spot can be found to excavate a new nest cavity. For whatever reason, the same hole is seldom used for a second time. It usually takes about a month for a mated pair to hollow out a six by up to 26-inch deep cavity in which three to six eggs are laid.

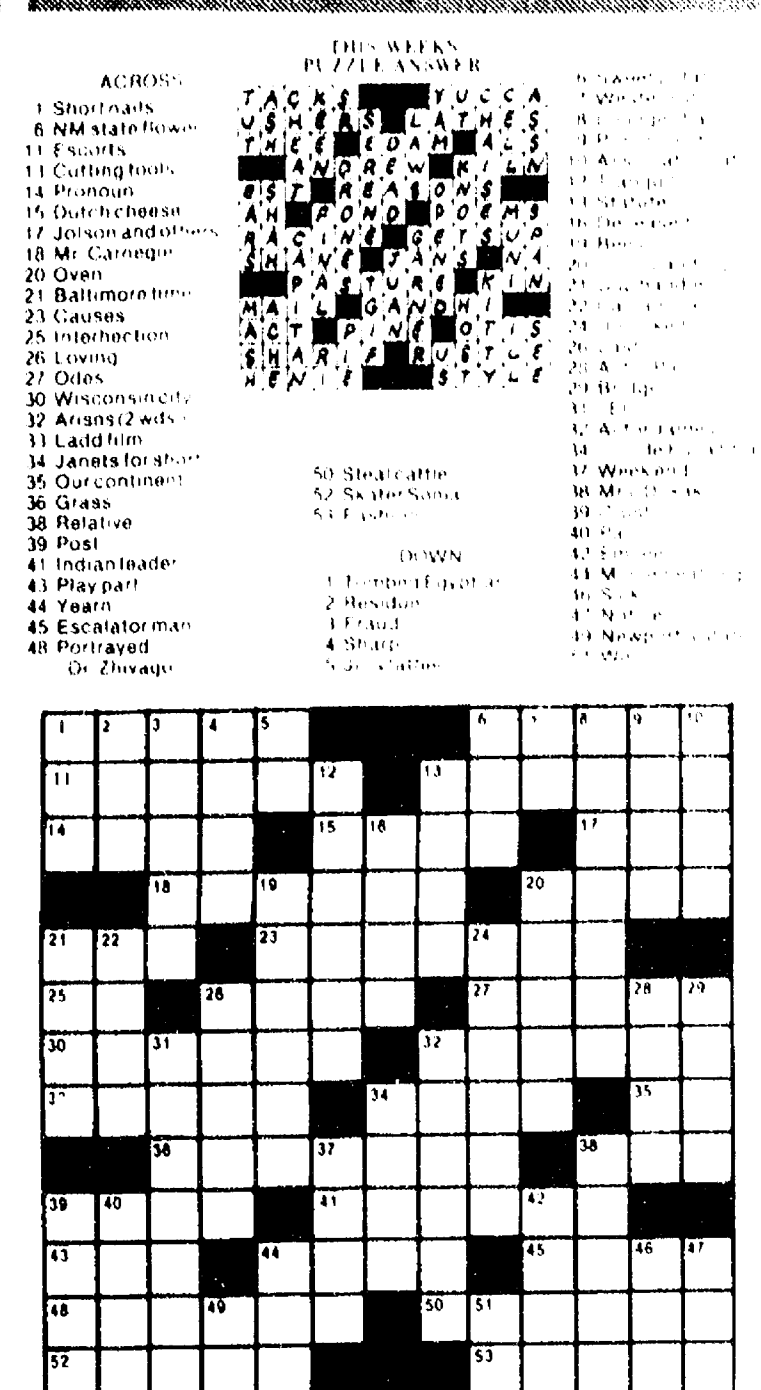

Hawks are one of the bird's few enemies, but the pileated can usually defend itself by adroit dodging around tree trunks. Apart from occasionally using a telephone pole for a nest site, the pileated is not a problem to man. Since it feeds ferociously on carpenter ant colonies, trees are actually saved by their presence in our forests.

Pet Care Tip

Include pets in your home, suggests the National Humane Education Society. In doing so, you help creatures live fully and at the same time you benefit from their love. Teach your children responsibility by assigning them the care of an animal.

There are many choices of pets besides cats and dogs, but only accept those you can successfully raise in your particular household.

46 Years Ago August 10, 1944

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Bearsch of Bay City were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold MacNeven over the weekend.

As you go along Highway M-72 you will see on the south side of the road about four miles west of Grayling a sign reading "Danish Landing." If you should turn in there you would find a winding road running between tall pines, birches and hardwoods; a beautiful shaded vista, dark even when the sun is bright. When you have gone about a mile you will come to a colony of well kept cottages on Lake Margrethe which is known to most local people as Danish Landing, but whose real name is Portage Lake Park. If you were to make your reservation early enough in the spring you might rent one of the cottages for a week or the season, but you can never own one unless you are of Danish, Swedish, or Norwegian descent. Just forty years ago this spring, on April 27, 1904, a deed was turned over to a group of Scandinavian friends, mostly Danes who had decided that they would like to have a place on Portage Lake (now Lake Margrethe) where their families could spend their summers. They called themselves "The Portage Park Company." Four members of this original group are still living in the vicinity. They are Julius Nelson, Johannes Rasmussen, Lars Rasmussen and Peter Hanson. According to Mr. Nelson one member of the group went to see the owner of the land to see if it could be purchased, then they all went by horse and wagon to look it over. After some discussion they bought a piece 300 feet by 642 feet for $325, had it surveyed and divided into 38 lots, half on the lake front and the rest directly back, with a road between the two groups. The lots were numbered and the numbers drawn from a hat.

When asked whether or not there seemed to be any resentment when a member drew one of the back lots Mrs. Nelson said everybody was satisfied, the lake front is part of the park and everybody can use it. Through all these forty years the park has been run on this basis; once a year a meeting is held to elect a president and secretary-treasurer and to transact the necessary business. Members own their lots and many have built and rebuilt on them. The park organization pays the taxes on the whole piece, maintains the road within the park, takes care of garbage disposal and oversees all other phases of service necessary to such a project. Most important is the water front, where they have the docks placed in the spring and removed for winter and special precautions are taken to safeguard the bathing beach. Present officers are Anthony Nelson president, Mrs. Elma Mae Moshier, secretary-treasurer, Margaret Nelson, trust-tee. So far as is known there has never been a written and signed agreement of any kind—all members are simply honor-bound to abide by the policies set up by their predecessors.

Denise Haas To Appear In Concert

Denise Haas and Refuge, from Bradenton, Florida, will present "Concert in the Park" on Saturday, August 11, at 4 p.m., in the Frederic Township Park.

Denise, who has sung professionally for four years, has been traveling through Florida, Ohio, Alabama and Michigan as a solo artist. She is presently touring with the band Refuge to promote her newly cut cassette tape "Back To The Basics."

Her husband Curt Haas, Jr., formerly of Grayling, travels with the group as sound man. Denise says that the concert will feature a variety of Christian music, including several original pieces.

There is no admission charge for the family concert. Audience members are encouraged to bring lawn chairs, blankets and picnic suppers.

Michelson To Hold Roof Dinner

The Michelson Memorial United Methodist Church will be serving a Swiss Steak Dinner with all the trimmings, including home made pies, on Wednesday, August 15, from 5 to 7 p.m.

The price will be $5 for adults, $2.50 for children under 12, and pre-schoolers free.

The proceeds will go toward a new roof for the church sanctuary and will help to put the "Pastor on the Roof" for a luncheon of "Crow on New Shingles."

The dinner is open to the public.

The Bible Speaks

New Age Religion In State Schools

Much has been in the news about growing trends in public education across America. This two part series will quote extensively from "The Briefcase," the Christian Law Association Newsletter, P.O. Box 30, Conneaut, OH 44030. These lawyers are fighting on the front lines.

"The New Age movement, a new religion as old as the Garden of Eden and wrapped in the garb of eastern mysticism, is sweeping our nation. This humanistic religion offers the Satanic promise that 'ye shall be as gods.' Transcendental meditation, magic circles, channeling, altered states of consciousness, astral projection, healing crystals, and other unbiblical, ungodly practices are utilized to reach a 'higher plane.'"

Last year a large public school in Iowa was chosen as a pilot school for an entire New Age curriculum. Not only are entire classes offered in meditation and New Age doctrine, but New Age teaching is being woven into every class. 'You are in control of your life. You have the potential within yourself to be as a god. Just meditate on your inward strength, and soon you will be able to heal your body, your self, your environment, your...'

...WAIT A MINUTE!!! How can these things be? Didn't the Supreme Court abolish prayer, the Bible and the Ten Commandments from public schools over fear of establishing a state religion? How may the New Age religion or any other religion be introduced into the public schools?

The Supreme Court cases which abolished prayer, the Bible, and the Ten Commandments from public schools did not abolish religion from the public schools. Rather, those cases merely substituted the historical and true religion of Christianity in the public schools with another religion, namely humanism. As Dr. R.J. Rushdoony ably states in his book "The Philosophy of the Christian Curriculum":

Education has always been a religious function of society and closely linked to its religion. When the state takes over the responsibility for education from the church or Christian parents, the state has not thereby disowned all religions, but simply disestablished Christianity in favor of its own statist religion, which is usually a form of humanism.

Education is inescapably religious. Public schools are truly parochial schools of the humanist religion. It should not therefore surprise us that the humanist New Age religion is now being blatantly taught in the public parochial schools."

Next week: How Christian teachers, parents, and students can encourage and strengthen their Christian morality and values in the public school system of today. A positive approach!!

The Understanding Chair

When we are young, rocking is a game. When we are old, it can become a way of life. And in between, there are countless occasions when rocking fulfills a human need — to think, to relax, to reminisce, to dream.

It's almost as though the rocking chair understands people, turning their restlessness into calm and contemplation.

But there are deeper human needs that find no comfort in the rhythm of the rocking chair — intense spiritual needs met only by communion with God.

God's House really understands people. Its worship, its teaching, its community service, all provide expression for our spiritual needs. The soul's restlessness is turned into conviction and commitment. Visit there this week.

REMEMBER WHEN—This float depicted many of the "old ways" of doing things in by-gone days. It was equipped with everything from a scrubboard to...yes, even a privy!

PRIZE WINNING FLOAT—Members of the Lovells Hook and Trigger Club carved whistles for young parade spectators and took second place in the float contest.

EARLY SETTLER—Miss Margaret Douglas rode in Hugh Bitters' "The Old Blue Goose". Miss Douglas' parents, T. E. and Martha Douglas, were two of Lovells' earliest residents.

NATIVE SON—Lee Kellogg is Lovells Township's oldest native son. Mr. Kellogg is 80-years-old. He lived in Lovells until 1939 and then returned to the township when he retired from Saginaw Malleable Iron, in 1975.

100s Attend Lovells' Heritage Day Celebration

GAMES IN THE PARK—The object of this relay race was to hit the football with a broomstick down around the volunteer with shinguards on and back to the next player.

EVERYBODY LOVES A CLOWN—These pint-sized clowns loved the parade even though Mother Nature decided to send a light drizzle.

OLD FASHIONED GET-TOGETHER—Everyone gathered at the Lovells Township Hall for games, music, food, visits with old friends, and a full array of early craft demonstrations.

HANDCRAFTED—Demonstrations included this one on hand quilting.
